THESE Are the DAYS

This past year has been the building block of some of the best memories of our lives. We all possess the quality to make the best of our time here at Tantasqua. With all of our different personalities put together, we bring something unique to this mosaic that we call our school. Without us, Tantasqua would be an ugly green and gold painted empty building with nothing inside but walls that hold memories of times gone by. Now we will be part of those memories, and realize that these are the days to remember.

STUDENT LIFE

These are the days that students have many opportunities to become involved in life at Tantasqua. Whether it be attending the prom, voting for the homecoming queen and king, supporting your class in the one act plays, or even elfing at the surrounding elementary schools, you have the chance to make memories.

PROM

"In Your Eyes" by Peter Gabriel was the theme of the 1994 Tantasqua Prom held at Mechanics Hall in Worcester on Friday, the 13th of May, 1994.

The evening of fun and dance was preceded by a delicious buffet. Every elegantly dressed young woman was accompanied by an equally distinguished looking gentleman.

A junior and senior court were chosen that evening. The junior court was made up of: Kim Heck, Katelyn Haggerty, Andy Dunn, and Justin Delabruere. The senior court was made up of: Kara Mickley, Alicia Cross, Pablo Ensayao, and Carl Mazzaferro. The king and queen were Chad Manseau and Jeanne Garvey.

In the future we can look back at that event and say, "Those were the days."

HOMECOMING

The Warriors in action against Southbridge.

The 1994 Homecoming was held on Saturday, November 5th, in the High School gym, which was decorated with an autumn theme by the Homecoming Committee. The crew started Friday night transforming the gym into an autumn haven and touched up Saturday morning.

Bright and early Saturday morning students had already arrived — for SAT's. Next, after the brain-racking morning, came the long awaited annual football game against Southbridge. Though the Warriors put up a good fight, they were defeated. But no need to worry; the game was livened up by the half time show. Both bands displayed their talent and long preparation for the day's event. The Tantasqua Marching Band showed off their new uniforms, and Anthony Fors, drum major, conducted a rendition of Aladdin that dazzled us. The Cheerleaders raised the morale of the crowd for the announcement of the King and Queen. The court consisted of Sheila Aslami, Dana Belotti, Katie Haggerty, Amie Laster, Faye Meredith, Mary Timmins, Andy Dunn, Ted Goodwin, Jason Grueter, Jeremy Miller, Chris Ryan, and Jeremy Surprenant. Anticipation grew, and Queen Mary Timmins and King Chris Ryan were announced.

7:30pm soon arrived and the dance began. Everyone was seen in their best and danced the night away. As the evening came to a close, the King and Queen were crowned and danced the traditional dance along with their court. "Faithfully" by Journey was this year's Homecoming theme.

EXCHANGE STUDENTS

If you've ever walked down the hallway and heard people speaking faster than the speed of light in Spanish, people conversing in French or Swedish, or people making jokes in Portuguese, chances are you've seen one of the five exchange students here at Tantasqua. These students have come to America, some of them for the first time, to live with an American family, study at our school, and learn about the American culture. They are lucky to have an experience like this, but we students at Tantasqua are luckier to have them here with us.

Lorena Duarte, a senior from Mexico, lives with the Charpentier family in Brookfield. Many students and teachers, have gotten to know Lorena really well and enjoy seeing her smile and hearing her laughter every day in school. If Lorena is not socializing with everyone at school, she is either studying or working at the Spanish-English Translation Department in Brookfield. Lorena misses her friends in Mexico and her car the most, but she's not ready to leave her new home in America.

Sergio Arrojo Magallan, a senior from Spain, resides with the Cantell family in Brimfield. Sergio, a top scholar here at Tantasqua, can most likely be found in the chemistry lab, since science and math are the two subjects he'd like to study at college. Sergio loves sports, especially soccer. He was on the boys' team this fall. He also enjoys listening to American bands such as Aerosmith; he has already been to one of their concerts here in America.

Miranda Landberg, a senior from Sweden, lives with the Shepard family in Sturbridge. Miranda has made quite a contribution to our school, most notably through the Girls' Cross Country Team. She was one of the top runners for the team and was even named a Border Conference All-Star. When she's not running cross country or track, Miranda is hanging out with her friends or studying, even though she thinks the schools here in America are much easier than the ones back home. Upon returning to Sweden Miranda hopes to study business, economics, or sociology.

Rodrigo Guena Mendes, a senior from Brazil, stays with the Glynn family in Fiskdale. If Rodrigo is not talking about soccer or reading about his favorite soccer team, the Brazilian national team, of course, he is playing soccer; and playing it extremely well. He was one of the leading scorers for the Boys' Varsity Soccer team and helped them with the Border Conference Championship. Even though he likes to party with everyone here at school, Rodrigo still thinks that we are all "crazy Americans." Rodrigo sadly leaves us in January when he returns to Brazil to finish high school.

Mathieu Toutee, a senior from France, lives with the Evangelous family in Sturbridge. Mathieu just arrived at Tantasqua in December and already he says that he doesn't like American food; maybe he just never tried a McDonald's cheeseburger. He loves school here at Tantasqua, though, since he would have to go to school three hours longer if he were in France. Mathieu loves snowboarding, soccer, and televisions with 100 channels. When he returns to France, he hopes to study business.

Although these students come from different countries all over the world and speak different languages, they all have one thing in common — a dream to study abroad. We hope that all their own dreams can be accomplished, starting here with Tantasqua. We wish them the best of luck when they return home to their respective countries.

Forty years ago, December 6, 1954, was the first day of classes at Tantasqua. Then housing grades seven through 12, Tantasqua welcomed 532 students, far fewer than the 700+ that we have now.

It was in 1950, though, that the idea of a region-wide school system was born. The committee considering the idea was made up of three residents from each town. After a year and a half of meetings, the committee presented reports to special town meetings in all five towns in January, 1952. By an overall margin of five to one, voters approved Tantasqua Regional High School.

It was then on to the construction. For two years crews prepared the site and built the high school. The project was on budget and only slightly behind schedule, due to a labor problem. It was a building well worth the wait.

Among the features that drew attention to the building was the gym. The moveable partition and the capacity to seat 1,000 spectators made Tantasqua the envy of the area. However, flooding damaged the gym's solid wood floor beyond repair in 1955.

There have been many changes, to both the building and the curriculum since 1954. An increasing student population caused double sessions in the early 1960s. Junior high students would go to school from 7:30 to 1:30, and the high school students would be in session from noon to 5:30. This schedule, which caused some students to come home after dark, lasted until 1963, when the addition to the senior hallway and Lucier Hall was completed. Then in 1973 the Junior High School was completed for the seventh, eighth, and ninth graders.

Tantasqua continues to change, even today. As the fortieth anniversary is celebrated, plans for an addition and remodeling project are being made to accommodate the ever-increasing student population of the area.

TANTASQUA'S ELVES

On December 23, 1994 Mr. New-on's, Mr. Earls', and Mrs. Sawyer's omposition classes went elfing at two lementary schools. They elfed at Hol-and Elementary School and Brookfield lementary School. It has been a tra-lition for the past ten years for a group f elves to answer Santa letters written y Kindergarten, first, and second grade hildren. The high school students then lress up as elves and go elfing at the chools. They deliver the letters from anta to the students. They help the hildren read their letters from Santa. When delivering the letters, they try to spread the Christmas spirit and convince the children that they really are Santa's elves. The children are able to ask the elves any questions about the North Pole, or Santa. The elves even get some questions about Santa's reindeer and Mrs. Claus.

Most of the children do believe in the elves and Santa Claus, and the few who aren't too sure are almost convinced by the end of the elfing visit.

Hot Spots

Where to go? What to do? Pick any day of the week and you will find at least one student from Tantasqua scoping one of these places to find some company.

The morning is usually a hectic time for all of us, although, some how we seem to manage to stop at the Bagel Express. Hey, it's quick, easy, and cheap — always the key word. Also, for people crazy enough to get up any earlier than they have to, there's Sim's and the Host. Here they work off the calories they have put on at all the other hot spots.

As we all know two o'clock never seems to roll around fast enough. But when it does, the rush to beat the buses is on, and a quick bite at McDonald's is always the next stop. Whether it is a weeknight or the weekend, Friendly's is the place to meet, especially after a game, which leads to Mobil for some gas.

This past year the Coffee House has opened its doors to poetry readings on Friday nights. The event was well received and will continue this year.

The newest hot spot is the American Legion. It all started with four boys (who just can't stick with one name) and has lead to the hottest thing to hit Tantasqua yet.

OUT OF SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

High School is a time of work, of fun, of friendship, of love, of what you make of it. Most students find school life to have enough pressure with full class loads, activities, projects and homework, along with all of this many have found the time for yet other outside activities.

Tantasqua is a busy place, but it doesn't offer everything that every student wants. Students sometime go to the surrounding communitites to find new interests. It's not difficult to find activities. There's horseback riding, dancing, soccer, to starting their own bands. Students find full lives and busy schedules for themselves both in and out of school.

▼Andy with the John Boyle O'Reilly Soccer Club.

Along with being a star soccer player at Tantasqua, Andy has committed himself to many other teams. His soccer takes him around the world. Andy traveled to Ireland for ten days last August to participate in the Emerald Cup Soccer Tournament held at the University of Limerick. He placed for the John Boyle O'Reilly Soccer Club of Springfield, MA on the under-19 team.

The team completed the tournament with a record of four wins and two losses, placing third in the tournament. Their wins included victories over teams from Ireland, England, and Italy.

As a result of their tournament play, they were invited to play some of the club teams around southwestern Ireland in "friendly" matches.

As you walk down the halls of Tantasqua you would neve guess the musical talent that lies within. Although Linus ha taken a few years to form and get where they are now, the could not be happier. Since their debut to the Tantasqu body in October at the Americal Legion, they have playe in and out of the community and have just recently made demo tape which can be bought. Well boys there's no wa but up.

Also, we have the Night Train Jazz Band. This group composed of high school and junior high school student from Tantasqua and Southbridge. They have performed a the Heritage Festival, Sturbridge Concert, the Host Hote Southbridge Family Fun Day, and others in 1994 and 1995 Anthony Fors is the conductor of the Night Train Jazz Band

SENIORS

We may be leaving behind the halls of Tantasqua as we go our separate ways into our own journeys of life, but we know we will never forget all of the good times of these past three years. Approximately 12% of our life so far has been spent at Tantasqua High School. In that time we have all made friends for life and found role models among our teachers, and for some of us we have learned the paths that we choose to follow. These are the days that we will always cherish.

DEDICATION

To my Absolute Favorite dance partner — I will Always Remember our "cha cha" and your big Embrace! Love Bryan

We the Class of 1995 dedicate our Yearbook to Miss Vera Slipp, a teacher, a role model, and a wonderful woman. Even though Miss Slipp did not teach at the High School, most of us either had her in Junior High or remember the rolls of laughter that came from her classroom.

Miss Slipp was a dedicated ninth grade English teacher for twenty-six years. She will be remembered for her wonderful personality and sense of humor. She was involved in the drama club and many of the Junior High plays, especially the productions by the "Slipps Shakespeareans." We are honored to dedicate this yearbook to the memory of Miss Slipp.

Ms. Slipp always found time to give of her time and talents. I called on her constantly and she was there: as the star of two of our Jr. H. shows, a chaperone for Rocky Point, a judge for the Pie Baking Contest at the Brookfield County Fair, a supervisor of students at the concerts, and even part of the faculty choir that sang with the Jr. High Choirs and the women's faculty team that challenged my J. H. softball team. She was a great sport who enjoyed participating in life. Miss Mason

Vera Slipp was many things to many people — teacher, colleague, and friend. She was actually all three to me. She taught me that having zest in the classroom is not only a goal to be striven for but a characteristic to be achieved. Vera provided me with collegial support in many of my school-wide activities from the one-act plays to the school musicals. Finally, she always managed to share that vibrant smile of hers that exuded warmth and was a sign of continued friendship. I will miss seeing the sparkle dance in her eyes. Mrs. Haggerty

When I pensively remember Vera Slipp, several consistent memories ruminate through my mind:
— Her absolute love-of-life that often roared from her toes as she threw back her head in gales of laughter;
— Her appreciation, thirst and love of culture, theatre and teaching; and — Her bone-deep generosity which expressed itself so warmly in touching gifts and thoughtful invitations.
Christine H. Coughlan
Jr. High Guidance Counselor

She came to us bearing gifts — willingly, tirelessly sharing her private joys: love of language, passion for knowledge, the pursuit of that which gives life its beauty. Some of us knew her as Vera, our colleague; others as Miss Slipp, our teacher. All of us can remember her as our friend. Yes, she is gone and we miss her. What can never be taken, however, are those precious gifts that all who knew her received. Thank you, Miss Slipp. Bravo! Brent Abrahamson

Miss Slipp always had such wonderful stories to share. Her wit and ability to share comical times of her life were a very welcome part of spending time with her. Mrs. Hayward

The tambourine is silent, the Shakespeareans perform no more but Vera's devotion to her students exceeded that of any of us and will not be forgotten. If we are to learn anything from Vera it is that energy and enthusiasm for what we do can bring great joy to our lives. Nancy Bené

"To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven." Your season here with us, Vera, though twenty-six years long, was too short. We selfishly miss your honesty, belief in your convictions, great wit, entertaining stories, and occasional faux pas. God be with you. Ann Manning

UNDERCLASSMEN

For the underclassmen, these are the days they will look upon as only the beginning of their time in high school. The juniors are impatiently awaiting their time to become seniors, while the sophomores have learned how to cope with being the smallest fish in the sea of life here at Tantasqua.

EARTH SOCIETY

"Watch where you're going!

"Boy, it ain't easy being a piece of trash like me, out here in the student parking lot. Everyone keeps runnin' over ya and don't care about ya, except for those nice Earth Society kids. Earth Society cares.

"They are a group of Tantasqua students dedicated to making the world a better place. This afternoon, they're coming out here to pick me and other trash up. Then I'll be safe from all of these student drivers.

"Those Earth Society kids also participate in the Mass. Envirothon. It's a competition that — Vroom! Vroom! — Hey! Watch where yu're goin! As I was saying, it's a competition among many schools in the state. They're asked questions concerning environmental issues. This will be Tantasqua's second year in competition. The Earth Society spends hours preparing for this event.

"The Earth Society also plans all kinds of trips, from camping to hiking. This is so the students can learn more about the nature around them and get in touch with what they're trying to save.

"Well, here comes a nice environmentally aware yout' to pick me up. I'm going to be recycled! Well, it's been nice talking to you. See you later!"

STUDENT COUNCIL

Our Student Council and class officers this year are an extremely enthusiastic and determined group. When they make up their minds to accomplish something for our school, they work at it wholeheartedly and get it done.

During the fall sports season, our Student Council managed to open the shack for food and refreshments during every night game, and on several occasions also opened during after school games. Running the shack was a large responsibility and took up a lot of the members' time. But regardless of that, everyone seemed excited to take part and give their time to Tantasqua fans.

Promotion of school spirit has also been an addition to the role of Student Council members this year. This group held an orange and black spirit day on Halloween. They also arranged for the bonfire pep rally at the beginning of the school year. The council is also trying to hold a rally for each sports season to come.

Joining together with the National Honor Society, several members came to Parents' Night and directed lost parents around our school. (The parents seemed very grateful.)

Our Student Council is also planning a holiday party with Santa. Elementary school children will get the chance to see Santa while playing games, having snacks, and singing Christmas carols with the members of Student Council, who will be disguised as Santa's helpers.

The future looks great for Student Council. The underclassmen are ready to keep up the great work during their years here at Tantasqua. In the past, Student Council wasn't taken seriously. But with the great attitudes and open minds which arrived this year, the Student Council of Tantasqua will continue to make a difference.

Thomas Jefferson Forum

The Thomas Jefferson Forum is a community service organization through which many students have volunteered to help in the surrounding communities. The state-wide program has been active in Tantasqua since 1990. The hours which the volunteers work are not a graduation requirement at Tantasqua. These students simply volunteer to get as involved as they can in helping those less fortunate than themselves as frequently as possible.

The Thomas Jefferson Forum got off to a great start this fall by working at several different craft fairs which helped to raise enough money for the group to hold a soup kitchen in Southbridge. It was a big success, with nearly 100 local people attending.

The TJF also held a month-long clothes drive earlier this year. The group donated the clothes they received to the surrounding towns as well as the battered women's shelter in Worcester.

TJF also has a tutoring program. Members of the grou travel to local elementary schools to help out those kids wh are having trouble.

In the future the group plans to continue doing non-projec community service work. The newest ideas and suggestion include adopting a grandparent from one of the five regiono towns. TJF will adopt those lonely senior citizens who don' have any grandchildren. Another project being discussed i adopting a highway. The group will pick up trash along the adopted piece of highway, plant trees there, and keep u the given land. TJF is also in the process of helping out St Jude's Children's Hospital.

Members of TJF are doing their best to help make a dif ference. The result is pleased high school students who know they have performed a service for someone who needed it and grateful recipients.

MOCK ELECTIONS

November 8, 1994, Election Day at Tantasqua High School.

As the ballot box heated up, the voters huddled in line waiting anxiously to experience firsthand the power of voting.

This year the Student Council of Tantasqua wanted to bring a bit of state government to our local high school; so they created the Mock Elections. The mock election started the day before election day, November 7, with Student Council registering students, explaining voting procedures, and answering questions. Then on November 8, a voting box was set up in the cafeteria where students who were registered voters could go and cast their ballots for whoever they felt were the best candidates for the positions of Congressman, Senator, Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, and Treasurer. The winners at Tantasqua were Neal, Kennedy, Weld, Cellucci, Harshbarger, and Malone, just as in the real statewide election.

The Mock Election was a first for Tantasqua, but it should become a tradition. The Student Council hopes that bringing the elections to Tantasqua will heighten students' political awareness.

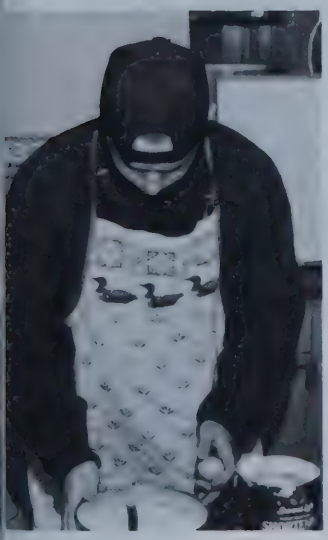
DOUBLE BLOCKS



f Tim Langevin makes it look so

From November 7 to November 21, 1994, students of Tantasqua experienced a trial schedule change, called "The Double Block Schedule." Students attended each of their classes for ninety minutes instead of the traditional forty-two and had only four classes a day instead of all seven. The first week we had AA, BB, E, FF blocks (E block never changed because it was centered around lunch). This meant that A, B, and F block classes had a chance to get more productive work done in that first week. Yet students didn't see their C, D or G block teachers until the second week, which went CC, DD, E, GG.

Before the trial, the double blocks were feared, yet anxiously awaited. Some people did not know how they could ever survive ninety minutes of some of their classes, when forty-five minutes already had felt like an eternity. Yet most of those people were pleasantly surprised when they found teachers and students more relaxed, and more ready to do a major activity which required class participation as well as enjoyment.

Results of student and teacher surveys will figure prominently in the decisions yet to be made about the future of extended scheduling at Tantasqua.

Head for the Slopes

om can you pick me up at afhool?" Alison Randall asks her er.

Many students in Tantasqua like to spend their time during the winter in Ski Club.

On six consecutive Saturday nights during the months of January and February, the Ski Club travels to Wachusett Mountain in Princeton, MA. Everyone meets at the school around three in the afternoon and piles into assigned buses with all their equipment.

Students carry their snacks and walkmans, and when someone brings a radio, people sing along on the approximately one hour trek to Wachusett.

Upon arrival at the mountain, the skiers get their layers of clothes on and put on their equipment. While the more experienced skiers stay on the summit trails, the less experienced keep to the intermediate and beginner slopes.

On some of the colder nights, the skiers ski only part of the time and then keep warm in the lodge, eating snacks, talking, and sitting by the fire.

After the long night of skiing is over, the exhausted students return to Sturbridge at about 11 PM, having rested on the bus ride home.

All of the members, experts and snow bunnies alike, have a great time.

DRIVER'S ED

A major goal for many high school students is getting their license. Driver's Ed offered through the school helps students to accomplish this goal. The classroom part of the course involves various movies and different important aspects of driving such as the rules of the road and different ways to ensure the safety of you and others. Driving on the road is another part of this course. Students have to have six hours of driving experience with the instructor, as well as observation time.

Driver's Education helps all students to prepare for one of the biggest responsibilities they will be given in their lives. When driving on the road, you not only have to know all of the rules, but you also have to take into consideration the fact that everyone around you is affected by the way you drive. You're not only taking the responsibility of your life in your hands, you are also affecting the lives of others who are on the road with you.

Driver's Education may be the one course in the school everyone really wants to pass, and our roads are safer for it.

TANTASQUA BANDS

"A one, a two, a one two three and . . . "

The roar of the crowd rings through the cool fall air as the Tantasqua marching band urges on, trying to uplift the unliftable. The Warriors are losing, but, as they say, the band plays on. Led by drum major Anthony Fors and Mr. Randall, the musicians come to attention and prepare for half time.

Complete with new caped uniforms of white, green, and gold, the band marches out to the field's center. At a call from their leader, they all jerk to a stop and about-face. The soft sound of an instrument wafts over the noisy crowd, catching their attention. The band performs an illustrious rendition of "Arabian Nights" from the movie Aladdin and the now interested crowd cheers with pleasure. Their happiness lasts as the band marches off the field.

Two days pass and Mr. Randall is preparing for the Monday night jazz band rehearsal. As the students slowly arrive, sheet music is passed around and jokes are told. Soon though, the music starts. From such jazz classics as "Satin Doll" to a modern rendition of "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer," the jazz band prepares for its upcoming concert and performances. It is a windy road to ride, though, since only a few members from last year are still involved thanks to graduation '94.

The concert band practices during the school week, for one block a day. Under the baton of Mr. Randall, the concert band is made up of many talented individuals, some of whom belong to other school bands. They, along with the jazz band anxiously try to perfect their instrumental pieces for the winter concert.

So, like the postal service, Tantasqua bands march through the world of music. No sleet, or rain, nor threat of snow will stop the bands from doing their duties.

Business Courses and Their Many Advantages

Tantasqua Regional High School offers a wide array of siness courses that are open to many different grade lev-. All of these courses help students prepare for college, al with careers involving business, and learn practical skills at will be of use in the future.

There are three different levels of accounting; students rt with the most basic and each year build upon the skills at they have already acquired. Accounting is a course which l help people deal with the financial aspects of a business, ecially keeping records and other important information. mputer Accounting is also offered, and it helps students obtain a basic understanding of how to enter financial ta on a computer.

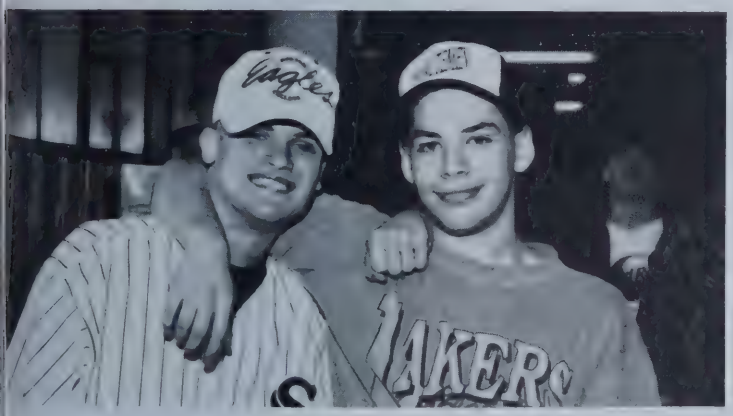
Business Law is a course which explains how common eve-ay laws work in the world of business. Business Machines ps students to develop better skills dealing with machines t are commonly used in offices. Advanced Business Tech-ogy is a course which lets students work in a particular d of business in which they are interested.

Another business course that Tantasqua offers is Executive Secretarial. This is an advanced course where students get hands-on experience working in departments and offices throughout the school. The course involves filing, using various office machines, and doing other such tasks.

Retail merchandising gives everyone the basic knowledge needed for operating a small business. This course also teaches important managerial skills. Shorthand I and Superwrite are both courses that are designed to show how to use specific methods to take notes at a faster pace. These shortcut methods are beneficial for college and all the lengthy lectures involved.

Personal Keyboarding, Keyboarding I, Keyboarding II, and Information Processing give a student skills which can always be put to good use. Information Processing deals more with computers and how to work with word processing, the data base, and the spreadsheet.

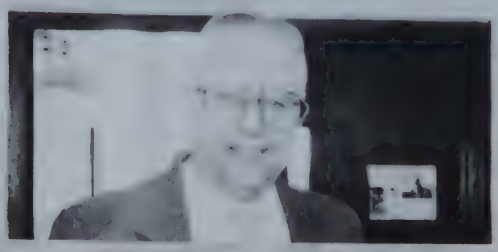
No matter what business course you may decide to take, each and every one of them has its own advantages and each one of them will come in handy now and also in the future.



What are you guys talking about?

You two should be studying!

"Hey, what else can we say."



FACULTY

These are the days that we find our faculty and administration working very hard to prepare us for an ever-changing world. Educational Reform requires our faculty to question the way they have taught in the past and to look for different ways to connect our education to what we will face in the future. Just this year Tantasqua experimented with longer class periods which required extra time and innovative changes by our faculty. Professional development is requiring our teachers to spend more of their own time after school to better meet our needs. Our administration is reaching out to parents and the community to become more involved in our education.

Many changes are affecting the staff at Tantasqua, but through all of these changes one thing still remains the same, the dedication and true concern that our faculty and administration has for the well being of their students. At Tantasqua we find teachers, administrators, and guidance counselors encouraging us and motivating us to excel. These same people still have time to lend a sympathetic ear or listen to our concerns. They also give their time and direction to our after school activities. They go the extra mile to see that we are truly taken care of. Yes, there will be many changes at Tantasqua in the coming years, but one thing will not change and that is our truly dedicated teachers and administrators.

TECHNICAL

These are the days at Tantasqua when students in grades 9-12 can enroll in such courses as: Tech I, Tech II, Machine Drafting, Machine Shop, Electrical, and Carpentry. We are very proud of the accomplishments of there courses and of the innovative changes that Tantasqua has made in these days of advancing technology.

TECH I

When most people think of technology they think about computers, expensive video games, or military jets that can break the sound barrier. Technology is defined by Webster to be "The totality of the means employed to provide objects necessary for human sustenance and comfort." So, though many people may perceive the Technology Center as a place where "vokies" how to fool around on a computer or other assorted technical equipment, there is a vast amount of knowledge being passed from teacher to student, and many times vice versa.

The Tech Center is a combination of the work place environment and the classroom. This kind of education is a unique experience for any student who chooses to take a class in the few recently renovated rooms under the catwalk. Both academic and technical division students are able to choose from a variety of classes that take place in the Technology Center.

There are seven teachers that work regularly in the Technology Center headed by Department Director, Mr. Errede. Combine the experience, mostly young staff with the state-of-the-art equipment at everyone's fingertips, and the Technology Center seems to be an excellent opportunity for any young person at Tantasqua.

It's time to prepare for the future, and a great place to start is in Tantasqua's Technology Center.

TECH II

Tech II is a program, for any tenth grade students, designed to give students a broad understanding of industry through working together as teams on group projects and presentations.

This program exposes students to four general areas: manufacturing, health, construction, and energy, power, and transportation. Yearlong students rotate through "clusters" and are exposed to all aspects of these industries including business issues, environment concerns, personnel issues, and how technology is used in each of these areas.

Instructional methods and student tasks assigned include field trips, guest speakers, oral reports, video reports, and a heavy emphasis on hands on activities and project building. For example, in the manufacturing cluster, the students conducted a market survey of consumer interests. They then designed and manufactured a marketable pizza cutter.

In the energy, power, and transportation cluster, these students designed and built a "pumped storage hydroelectrical generation facility" modeled after the New England Power Bear Swamp Facility, located in the northwest corner of the state, which the students visited earlier this year.

Next year, the current Tech II students will choose one of the current four technical sections to pursue their career.

MACHINE DRAFTING

Students entering the machine drafting program after two years in the Tech program have decided on their vocation of drafting. In their educational process they will receive full knowledge of several CAD programs which include, Auto CAD, Auto CAD Release 12, CAD Key, and Architectural Auto CAD. Also, they'll learn several manual drawing techniques and use them to construct actual working drawings.

Shane Ricci has furthered his learning skill by advancing his work in mechanical drafting. Jay Berthiaume and Jamie Suprenant have been working on CAD and studying Auto CAD so far this year.

Jeremy Crouteau has designed a house during the first quarter. Jeremy used ten drawings to complete it. The house met all legal codes. After much research Jeremy and AJ Tetreault, using a special kit, made a ¾ scale model of the house.

Jeremy Senecal and Lisa Staruk have designed truck interior customization kits. They used advanced tools in the industry to develop kits that include twenty parts. These two successfully completed their project before the deadline.

Jumping Joe Mammay has designed the new music center for Tantasqua 2000 project. Joey was given a sketch by Mr. Randall. He then put it into scale, finishing the blueprints in one week. Joey used his first quarter to complete this project. The new music center will be twice the size of the current one, symmetrically designed.

MACHINE SHOP

Machine Shop is made up of six students — one post graduate, four seniors, and one exceptional junior. Jessica Jolin in one month has completed a valve needed for a coolant pump. This year she has also completed projects from ninth and tenth grade that have been heat-treated. Heat treating the projects consists of heating them to 1300 degrees, which changes the elements; then they can be ground finished. "She's accomplished a lot," says Mr. Rousseau. Jessica works daily on replacing machine parts, and by the end of the year she is anticipated to be working on senior projects.

Michael Stiles, the post graduate student, "Is a talented young man, an excellent tool maker, with a great reputation," says Mr. Rousseau. Michael is accomplished in two trades, welding and machine shop.

Senior Johnny Rivera has written the curriculum for CNC, Computer Numerical Control, the new Tech I program, a huge accomplishment. Nate Robbins and Johnny have written the complete rotary design, using xyv axes, to build a working robot. These gentlemen have also built casting for the adjustable machine vice.

Jesse Dulmain has been working this semester on fixtures for the new Tech II production line.

All of these seniors have built pins and bolts to improve the school. They've also built a bracket for the school plow.

Here's Ed dressed to the T.

ELECTRICAL

Eleventh grade students enrolled in electrical have contributed part of their first quarter towards refurbishing the new electrical shop. They also invest some of their time in keeping up the electrical maintenance around the school, under the direct supervision of Mr. Manseau.

Seniors, by June, will have completed four major projects. They are currently renovating the three-level, historical Brimfield Town Hall. Students working on the project will repair all of the power and lighting in the basement and the main level with the exception of the main hall.

"The guys did an exceptional job. They got it done in half the expected time," says Mr. Devine.

Seniors and juniors help in the renovating of the new shop. They are in charge of reinstalling power circuits, and preparing the facility for the rest of the year.

Soon these students will embark on another large project at the Brimfield Town Barn. They will redo, from scratch, all of the electrical wiring, including the new main electrical service, and install new receptacles.

In the spring, when the house project is completed by carpentry students, the electrical seniors are sent out, under the instruction of Mr. Devine, to do the complete installation of rough and finished wiring. Students gain real experience, under real conditions to prepare them for the future.

CARPENTRY

Twelfth grade carpentry students build a house annually. This year the house is in Sturbridge, on South Road. Different people who would like a house built by the students need to apply. The owner of the house pays for all of the materials, but labor is free.

The house is started in September. It is framed and closed by December. Students work on the inside of the house during the cold months. When spring arrives, they finish the outside. The house is completed in approximately eight months.

Juniors this year will prepare for the building of the house during their senior year by doing several small building and classroom carpentry projects. This year, a major project they've been working on is the construction of a pavilion. "It was a challenging, yet interesting project," says Mr. LaFond. Their time was occupied all fall working on the pavilion, which will be completed in the spring.

The carpentry students also work on building projects for school. They build such things as bookcases and bulletin boards. Later this year they will be building a deck for the school. Other times they participate on the house project with the seniors to get a higher level of hands-on carpentry experience.

"We're the last of the voci's," says the carpentry and electrical students. Next year's juniors will be Tech II students. The school is growing, changing, and expanding. So, too, are the students and curriculum.

William Story was in a motorcycle accident in September. After much time in the hospital, he has now been moved to Fairview Rehabilitation Center. Bill has been a member of Carpentry since his freshman year. He has been missed and thought of often.

SPORTS

These are the days filled with team spirit. Whether you are a player or a fan, dedication is what makes the Warriors strong. In the stands the Warrior fans are devoted to Tantasqua teams. On the fields, roads, track, greens, and courts, the players are dedicating their time to the challenges of Warrior athletics.

▼"Wait up for me, guys, says Colby.

INDOOR TRACK

Tantasqua was ecstatic to announce that there would be a new sport offered during the winter season. With the strong encouragement of Miss Duane and Mr. Kelly, science teachers and boys' and girls' track coaches respectively, and the determination of Mr. Coughlin, the Athletic Director, Indoor Track officially became a sport offered here at Tantasqua. It consists of the high jump, shot-put, 50-yard dash, 50-yard hurdles, 100-yard dash, 300-yard race, 1,000-yard race, the one-mile race, the one-mile relay, and the two-mile race.

Forty or so students enthusiastically signed up to join the team in late November. The numbers have dwindled since then, but the spirit and enthusiasm for this new sport only increased.

The number of boys on the track team fluctuates from four to ten each meet. Considering the numbers, the boys, led by co-captains Nate Marcucci and Colby Shaffer, did well for themselves. Nate Marcucci and Anthony Mazzafarro even qualified for the Harvard State Class Meet.

The girls, with twice as many runners as the boys, started off this season with flying colors. They were led by captains Sarah and Jessica Corriveau, Miranda Landberg, and Tania Kozikowski. The four of their players qualified for the Harvard State Class Meet.

Overall, the sport was well received by the students. The seniors and Coach LaFond hope this new sport and tradition will carry on in the years to come.

CHEERLEADING

▸All lined up and ready to cheer.
he football Cheerleaders are really on top of things!

The Cheerleading Squad has done quite well for themselves considering an entire football season went by without a squad at all. Thanks to the help of Sandra Dunn, the girls' Coach, the team has turned around and the basketball players, the football players, and especially all the loyal Warrior fans appreciate their work.

Cheerleading is not as easy as it seems. The reason most of the stunts and cheers look so smooth and easy is because they are meant to be. The girls put in long hours in the auditorium not only practicing the cheers themselves, but also mediculously working on every jump, and working out in our own school's personal weight room. Besides all that, the girls have to smile for hours on end. Something most of us can't imagine doing while doing a split or a cartwheel simultaneously.

The Cheerleaders job is to get the school, crowd, and players psyched up and ready to win. Thus far they have done a great job and we thank them for all their school spirit.

The spring of 1994 was one of transition for Coach Foley and the Varsity Baseball squad. Having a sub par season as far as wins and losses go, the Warriors discovered fresh talent for the '95 season, and beyond. Led by Border Conference All-Star Charlie Vaida and co-captain Dan Roscioli, both of the class of '95, this year's team looks promising.

Along with Vaida and Roscioli, the baseball Warriors were bolstered by youngsters Ben Campbell, Warren Kenniston, and lightning bolt Anthony Mazzafero, of the class of '97. With tremendous talent on JV and an excellent group of senior leaders, the Warriors will be shooting for Districts this spring.

Both the Boys' and Girls' Tennis teams enjoyed very successful seasons in 1994. The climax of the season came when both teams made their respective District Tournaments.

The girls' successful spring stint was led by seniors Emily Courville, number one singles player, and Jen Kenyon, one half of the Lady Warriors top doubles team. Even with the loss of these two, a strong group returns, headed by Lacey Roedel and Alison Murawski.

The boys also had a good showing last season, making the Districts and advancing in the tournament. Excellent singles efforts were turned in by Jason Hevey and Ryan Murawski, both of the class of '95. Also from this year's senior class, the tandem of Jeremy Surprenant and Ted Goodwin played super doubles.

BOYS SOCCER

When double sessions started in mid-August, I would admiringly watch the Boys Soccer team stretch, run, and sprint, and would wonder how they could endure that for an hour or so before they even began their regular practice! I realized soon after that they did it to become one of the best soccer teams Tantasqua has ever had.

To call the Boys Soccer season amazing is an understatement. This was the first time since 1982 that the Boys Soccer team won the Border Conference title, and probably the first time in Tantasqua history that they made it to the semifinals in Districts.

It is very hard to single out the talent of just a few players on this team, but the "one-two" punch of co-captain Andy Dunn and Brazilian exchange student Rodrigo Mendes had a lot to do with their success. With the help of other soccer greats such as co-captains Ted Goodwin, Brian Raymond, Dave Kimball, and many others, the team ended the season with a record of 15-3-1. The JV Boys Soccer team had a great season too. Coached by Miss Jean Madesto.

Next season may be rough for the underclassmen players because the loss of seven seniors, but they can carry this year's memories into next year's season.

The varsity team, because of its extremely talented players, showed great improvement over last year. Katelyn Haggerty, one of the team's most valuable players, exemplified her skills by setting a Tantasqua record of nineteen goals and eighteen assists.

Seniors Shelia Aslami, Katelyn Haggerty, Tania Kozikowski, Melissa Paradis, Rebecca Wallgren, and Jen Williams will be missed, but the younger girls certainly have a bright future ahead of them.

CROSS COUNTRY

ntasqua runners are already at head of the pack.

▶Keep up the lead!

▲▲▲Mr. Prouty anxiously awaits to see who the finalists will be.

Many of us here at Tantasqua have probably asked ourselves why the members of the Girls' and Boys' Cross Country teams want to run — run for fun that is. We can't imagine ourselves running up to ten miles a day, doing sprints, and running up and down hills all in a day's work and with a smile on our faces. That is because we don't have the dedication, high motivation, and intense mental strength of the individuals of the cross country teams. And as in past years, this year's teams were full of enthusiastic, fit, and determined runners.

The Boys' Cross Country season was a bit rocky — what some may call a building year. They were a fairly new team led by a young, but experienced, captain, Matt Buffone. With the hard work of the entire team and the support of a few veteran runners, the boys finished off their season strong. In a few years, with all the talented runners, the team will be back on track, so to speak.

Despite the loss of five seniors, one of them a nationally ranked cross country runner, the Girl's Cross Country team had an awesome season, with a record of 11-2. The girls captured the Border Conference title for the fourth year in a row, with co-champion Quabog.

The team, led by co-captains Erin Fitzgibbons and Sarah Corriveau, worked tremendously hard all season long, and didn't stop running their hearts out until they knew they were victorious once again in the Border Conference. Four of the girls made Border Conference All-Stars and two of them continued on to Districts.

Both teams are still growing and developing and can look forward to a great season next year.

when the regular season came along, they practiced Saturday mornings and Sunday afternoons as well. The girls took a team that had only three goals and one win in 1992 and made it into a team that had forty-one goals and eight wins. The highlight of the season was making it into Districts since 1986.

To most people, the 1994 field hockey season might have seemed like an average season for a typical high school team, but to the girls of that team, it was a time in their lives they will never forget. A quote on one of Potter's t-shirts sums up the field hockey season this year: "It takes more to make a champion." The Tantasqua Field Hockey team obviously knew what that meant.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

▼"I've got it!" "No, I've got it!"

So maybe this years boys' basketball season wasn't exactly what they had expected. They began the season in a rut, and though they slowly picked up the pace, that wasn't enough to secure them a position in the Clark Tournament.

Despite those facts, most of the boys and Coach Mark Wilson put tremendous effort into the team. Warren Kenneston and Mike Reily led the team in scoring. Point guard Jason Hevey was amazing with his great passing. Brendan Clarke, Brian Johnson, and Ben O'Connell showed remarkable defensive skills in stopping other teams' top scorers.

Despite the record, the Warriors worked hard and played some excellent ball. We want to wish next year's team the best of luck.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

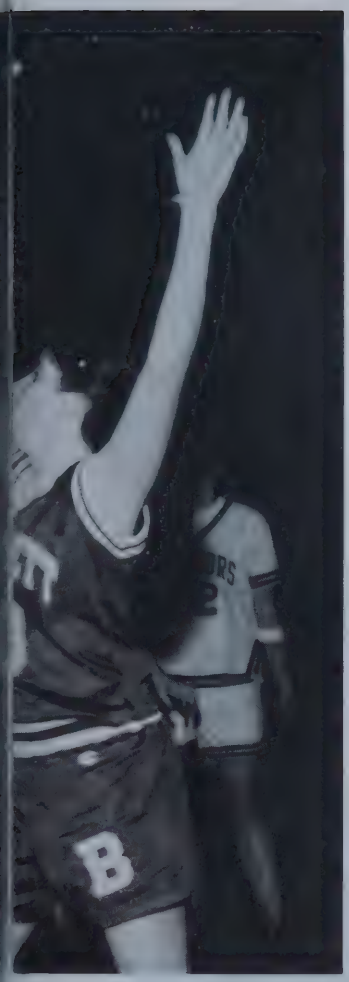
[illegible] year when Coach [illegible] said, "This [illegible] on the brink of being [illegible] in the very [illegible] future," she couldn't [illegible] any better. This [illegible] Girls' Basketball team [illegible] un- [illegible] with [illegible] to [illegible] delaine, the team was able to secure a place in Districts and finish off their awesome season.

As if that weren't impressive enough, the entire team was voted as News' Athletes of the week and the girls played in the Western Worcester League Tournament.

Next year could be a rebuilding year because of the loss of four talented seniors: Kate, Erin, Crystal, and Renee. Knowing Coach Potter and the rest of the girls on the team, though, they'll do just fine.

▲ . . . And the game begins.

▲Kelly goes for a few points.



◀Monique gets the rebound.

PEER COUNSELORS

Peer Counselors are students who offer their time to help their schoolmates. If a student has a problem, needs advice, or just wants to talk, the peer counselors are available. To make an appointment with a peer counselor, see your guidance counselor.

[illegible] students who [illegible] to become peer [illegible] personal [illegible] interviewed for [illegible] teen people [illegible] and work as [illegible] throughout their [illegible] career. If any sophomore, junior, or senior would like to apply to become a counselor, he or she [illegible] to through the Guidance Department.

[illegible] counselors, the [illegible] meetings, speeches, and classes on subjects like organization, counseling, and stress management. They do so to be better at helping their peers with problems. This years seniors attended a total of ten hours of classes on mediation last year. At the end of these classes, each member received a certificate of mediation. Now students can sign up for one-on-one confidential sessions, or if two students have a disagreement, they can apply for a mediator to help find a solution.

The peer counselors' goals are to be there to help people, and to help make the school a more supportive place to attend. They deserve recognition and admiration.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The National Honor Society (NHS) has a prestigious [illegible] but its members do [illegible] more than just be honorable. NHS' aim is to provide service to the community and the school. Getting into the National Honor Society is no easy feat. To become and stay a member, a student must maintain an unweighted 3.3 GPA, as well as participate in two individual service projects each year. It is up to each member to decide how he or she will fulfill the individual project requirement. These services include things like participating in walks for causes such as Women's safety or the Warriors. A few of the members participate in a Bike Race during the summers. The National Honor Society is a club made to recognize students committed to excellence in grades and in community service.

TV INTERNS

A group receiving a lot of attention (at Tantasqua) this year is the TV Interns. Mr. McDonald and Mrs. McKinstry are their advisors, and the students work to master the art of TV production. The interns tape events such as the One Act Play Contest, music concerts, and community and sporting events.

Every week the interns produce the "Tantasqua Weekly News," which airs on four local access channels over the five town region. The show includes school briefs and clips from the past week's events. The interns also show clips from sporting events and a tape of Tantasqua in the 1950's. The show is becoming quite popular among Tantasqua Students, many of whom hope to catch a glimpse of themselves on the screen.

Kerri Dilk is working on a video that will be presented to a state board in the fall of 1995. This video will be presented along with a report for the reaccreditation of the school. Only a TV Intern could attempt such a project.

These Are the Days

As the end of the school year nears, Seniors will soon go their separate ways, Underclassmen will have the stresses of SAT's, and college preparations, and the Sophomores will become juniors. The memories that have been made will still linger in halls of Tantasqua and some day we will look back and say that "These were the Days." Good Luck to everyone.

Producing this year's yearbook has had its [illegible] and downs. The late nights and early [illegible]nings, the millions of cups of tea and Diet Coke to keep me awake, and all the stress [illegible] hard parts, but making my dead-[illegible] completing this book made every-[illegible] worthwhile.

[illegible] I would like to thank Mr. Newton, a [illegible] advisor, for his support and Mr. [illegible] for helping with the transition; Mr. [illegible] my yearbook representative, for his [illegible] guidance; Mr. Simanski, for [illegible] with my endless questions; the of-[illegible] for letting me make phone calls [illegible] announcements. I would also like to [illegible] entire staff for all of their help with [illegible] thanks to Sarah, Laura, Jenn, and [illegible] ou were a great Assistant Editor [illegible] luck next year!

Secondly, I'd like to thank my family, Mom, Dad, Carey, Beth, and Laura. Mom and Dad, thank you for your support. Mom, now you can have your dining room back. Thanks Carey for answering my questions. Beth and Laura, for putting up with me and my stress. Thanks guys I'll miss you next year!

Producing this yearbook has taught me a lot, and I think that I've grown through the process. Much of what we've produced has been the result of the many years of instruction by our wonderful teachers. I wish the Class of 1995 all of the luck and happiness possible in the years to come. Even though we are parting, we should try to stay in touch. Remember "These are the Days."
